Food Stamp Benefits Reporting Rules for households with income (six-month reporters):

As a household with income, you are now only required to report changes about your Food Stamp benefits household at the time of your next recertification, except for the following two situations:

- If your household's gross monthly income exceeds 130% of the poverty level, you must report this monthly amount to your social services district by telephone, in writing, or in person within 10 days after the end of the calendar month.
Gross income is the amount of income before taxes and other deductions are taken out, not the amount you receive when you cash your check. We must use the gross income in figuring your eligibility for Food Stamp benefits. Your worker will explain what 130% of the poverty level means for a family of your size. Any other kind of income that you receive besides earnings must be added to your gross earned income to know if you are over 130% of the poverty level. Examples of other sources of income that count include child support payments, Unemployment Insurance, Temporary Assistance (TA) payments, Workers Compensation or disability payments such as Social Security, SSI or private disability payments.

If you fail to report that your gross income is above 130% of the poverty level in any calendar month, all benefits received after that month may be considered an overpayment. This is true even if your gross income falls below the 130% poverty level in a future month.

- If your household's certification period is longer than 6 months, and no one in your household receives Temporary Assistance (TA): At a six-month checkpoint into your certification period, if your household has any of the changes listed below, you are required to report them on this change report form within ten days after you receive the form.

NOTE: At this six-month checkpoint you do not have to return this form unless your household has had any of the changes listed below.

List of Changes you must report at the six-month checkpoint:

- Changes in any source of income for anyone in your household.
- Changes in your total household earned income when it goes up or down by more than $100 a month.
- Changes in your total household unearned income when it goes up or down by more than $25 a month if received from a public source such as Social Security Benefits or Unemployment Insurance Benefits (UIB) etc.
- Changes in your total household unearned income when it goes up or down by more than $100 a month if received from a private source such as Child Support Payments or Private Disability Insurance Payment etc.
- Changes of $100 or more in court ordered child support paid to a child outside of the Food Stamp benefits Household.
- Changes in the number of people in your household.
- Your new address, if you move.
- Your new rent or mortgage costs, if you move.
- A new or different car, or other vehicle.
- Increases in your household's cash, stocks, bonds, money in the bank or savings institution if the total cash and savings of all household members now amounts to $2000 or more. ($3000 or more if one household member is disabled or 60 years old or older).
- Any changes in your household that would result in a penalty as described on page 5.

You are not required to report changes in your medical expenses during your certification period. However, you may voluntarily report changes in your medical expenses for household members that are:

- 60 years old or older
- disabled spouses or children of a deceased veteran
- getting Supplemental Security Income (SSI)
- getting Social Security Disability payments
- getting veterans' disability benefits
- getting government disability retirement benefits
- getting Railroad Retirement disability benefits
- getting disability-based medical assistance.

If you report and verify an increase in your medical expenses, you may be eligible for more Food Stamp benefits. Changes in medical expenses must be reported at your next recertification.

Exceptions To Six-Month Reporting Rules – You must report all of the changes listed on Page 1 in item #2 within ten days after the change occurs if your household:

- had no income, or
- gets SSI or SSD and lives in a certified congregate care group home, or
- includes a seasonal migrant farm-worker, or
- was certified for less than four months, or
- is homeless (undomiciled – without shelter), or
- includes an Able-Bodied Adult Without Dependents (“ABAWD”): you must tell us if your work hours go below 80 hours a month with 10 days after the end of the month.

Food Stamp Benefits Reporting Rules for household in receipt of transitional benefits (TBA):

- Transitional Food Stamp benefits are Food Stamp benefits that you can continue to receive for up to five months after your Temporary Assistance case closes.
- You are not required to report changes during the transition period. If you have changes that may increase your benefits you can contact your worker to file an early recertification application at any time during your transitional period to receive the increase. The increase cannot be done until a signed recertification application is filed, and the entire recertification process is completed.
- You must recertify near the end of your transitional period to see if you can continue to receive food stamp benefits after your transitional period ends. We will send you a notice reminding you of this recertification requirement. If you do not recertify we will not send you any other notice and must close your food stamp case.

Temporary Assistance Reporting Rules: The rules listed above apply only to the Food Stamp Benefits program. If you also receive TA, you are still required to report changes for TA within 10 days of the change, on periodic report mailers, TA Eligibility Questionnaires and at recertification.
