

Local Workforce Development Board (LWDB) Approval

For organizations planning on providing job skills training and work-based learning programs through the SNAP E&T program, approval from the Local Workforce Development Board must be obtained to demonstrate that the program(s) being offered is (are) related to employment in demand within the local workforce investment area. Use the table below to list the types of programs to be offered, the skills to be acquired by participants, and the types of job openings. Submit the completed form to the appropriate LWDB for review and approval.
